C. G. HASTINGS TELLS VALUE OF PROPOSED L. A. TUNNEL TO GLENDALE

"Those who have been keeping track of the developments in Los Angeles know that it is proposed to vote for bonds for the construction of a tunnel through the Second street hill of that city," said C. G. Hastings, tunnel engineer. "The city council recently ordered that the proposed bond issue of $300,000 be placed on the ballot at the June election. The campaign for the tunnel is being pushed by the Second Street Tunnel association, the chamber of commerce, the Retail Dry Goods Merchants' association and the Realty board." Mr. Hastings is a Glendale resident at 1215 W. Ninth street.

"In fact the sentiment for the Second street tunnel has become so strong that it seems almost certain that the bonds will be carried. Still it may be that there are those in the districts surrounding Los Angeles who do not understand the matter and who might be induced to work against the proposal on the ground of economy or to prevent any increase in taxation.

"It would be well for the people of the districts affected by the tunnel proposal to waken up to a realization of what it means. The proposal is to drive a twin bore through Bunker hill and to regrade First street from Lake Shore boulevard west. This would mean the opening up of a direct highway to Glendale, Tropic and the whole San Fernando valley. In connection with the bridge that is to be constructed over the Los Angeles river at Ivanhoe it would immediately place Glendale on what will eventually be one of the great highways out of Los Angeles.

"In a very short time a great stream of traffic from the San Fernando valley and the whole of Glendale district will pass through that Second street tunnel into Hill and Broadway. It is time that Glendale wakened up to realize that it is on the direct path of one of the greatest highways of Southern California. By co-operating with those in the city of Los Angeles who are working on this plan, the people of Glendale will be benefitting themselves.

"At present Glendale is side-tracked as far as the city of Los Angeles is concerned. It is only beginning to realize that isolation while an excellent thing in the early stages of a city that desires to build itself up on certain lines is concerned, may be carried too far. Now is the time for Glendale to bestir itself and to see that the Second street tunnel is constructed and thereby secure for Glendale a direct line of communication with the greatest city in California."

Mr. Hastings is a tunnel engineer. He is supervising and consulting engineer of the Hastings Tunneling and Reinforced Concrete Tunnel System. In connection with this company he has been engaged in tunnel work throughout the United States and is thoroughly acquainted with the practical work necessary for constructing a tunnel of the kind proposed for Second street. Mr. Hastings' inventions for tunnel work are particularly ingenious and practical. The Hastings shield for tunneling is well known, having been used in the construction of more than 4000 feet of tunnel in 1899-1900 and since then in much other work. He is of the opinion that a tunnel such as that proposed would mean an enormous development both of Los Angeles and Glendale.

DR. DURFEE LOSES CLOTHING

When Dr. I. H. Durfee returned from church Sunday he hung his Sunday-go-to-meeting suit in a closet next to his office at his residence, 508 S. Brand. On Thursday he planned to go to Los Angeles and was intending to don his best togs, but when he looked for them the coat and vest were missing from their accustomed hook. A thorough search was made but failed to reveal the missing clothing. The trousers which were hanging under a pair of white linen ones were undisturbed. The only explanation is that some one walked into the house uninvited sometime between Monday morning and Wednesday evening and helped himself to the best he could find in the doctor's wardrobe. The robbery was committed in the day time as all doors were locked at night. This should be a warning to those who leave their doors unlocked during the day. As yet nothing else has been discovered missing from the house.

WHERE ROSES GROW

Miss Margaret E. Boal of Rock Glen avenue, California, is a rose specialist, who is attracting attention outside of this center. "Every Week," a publication that is rapidly advancing to the front rank, recently had an appreciation of Miss Boal's work. The Boal rose farm has 7500 two-year-old Ulrich Bruner rose bushes and 1200 Cecil Bruners. In addition to her weekly sale of cut flowers she gathers an immense quantity of the rose petals for sale to perfumers.

Miss Boal was a milliner for seventeen years. The close and confining work of the shop told upon her constitution and she gave it up for the study of law. Her close attention to her studies ended in physical collapse and she was advised to get into the open air and live an outdoor life. This advice she has followed to the great benefit of health. Her Rock Glen avenue home is a most beautiful sight. She has five acres and works outdoors all the time.

FRANZ-JOSEF'S ARMY MAKES SLIGHT GAINS ON THIRTY-FIVE-MILE LINE OF ADVANCE

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)
BERLIN, May 19.—All along the thirty-five-mile line of advance the Austrians are directing particularly vicious attacks against the Italian positions. The drive has naturally carried the Austrians over some of the first-line positions; but the Italians have straightened out their line of defense and are holding back the Austrians with complete success. The Austrian official report states that in the course of the drive 900 Italians and eighteen cannon and machine guns have been seized. In the region of Adamello the Italians report considerable gains and also in the Gulf of Trieste region.

GERMANS TAKE SMALL FRENCH WORK

TEUTONS ASSAULT HILL 287 ON VERDUN FRONT AND OCCUPY MINOR REDOUBT

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)
PARIS, May 19.—It was admitted by the war office today that the Germans had made a fierce attack on Hill 287, on the Verdun front, and that they had captured a small fort or redoubt. Their attacks were fierce and in force, but except at this single point they completely broke down and were repulsed with great slaughter. The French are continuing their attacks on the German trenches on Hill 304 and a fierce artillery duel is raging in that direction.

NEW MEXICO COWBOYS BREAK UP BAND OF RAIDERS SOUTH OF MADERA

COLUMBUS, N. M., May 19.—Sixteen Villistas were killed and many captured today by a band of twenty-five American cowboys, thirty miles south of Madera. The cowboys had followed the Mexicans who had been operating around the Hearst farm at Babicora. They pursued the Villistas several days and finally surprised them. The Mexican leader, Pedro Cassillo, was killed.

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)
DETROIT, May 19.—Ex-President Roosevelt, speaking at a gathering at Detroit this morning, accused the German-Americans of the country, especially the more influential of them, with strongly advocating peace plans, in order to keep the United States unprepared while Germany would be in readiness for any campaign she might seek to undertake over here.

GERMANY INDICATES DESIRE FOR PEACE

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)
BERLIN, May 19.—There is a strong feeling here that if the United States should advocate peace that it would succeed in bringing about that desirable result.

GOD'S RIGHTEOUSNESS

FREEDOM FROM THE POWER OF SIN THROUGH JESUS CHRIST

At the Presbyterian church last evening Dr. J. R. Pratt dealt with the sinner and his sins in the lesson study of Romans. Man has a three-fold need that must be met by the gospel through grace in Christ, his position, character and conduct. This need is met in justification, sanctification and consecration.

Adam's one offense brought in sin; sin brought in death. As Adam is the head of the human race, death has a universal reign because of his sin.

Righteousness is brought through one act of Christ. The offer of righteousness through Christ's death is to all, but not accepted by all.

The law did not originate sin and death and was not intended to remove sin, but to prepare the way for its removal through grace.

God forbid that one should continue in sin that grace may abound. The results of the believer's union with Christ in his death and burial are the crucifixion of the old man and deliverance from sin's bondage.

The results of union with Christ in his resurrection are deliverance from the power of sin and the dominion of death and a Godly life.

The practical application of this union with Christ in the believer is sin no longer reigns, loses dominion and has no claim, while there is a yielding to God and righteousness.

God forbid that we should sin because we are not under the law. Under the law we are servants of sin without righteousness and sentenced to death. Under grace we are free from sin, servants of righteousness, servants of God, bear fruits unto holiness and the end is everlasting life.

BOY SCOUT PLANS

Glendale has a flourishing company of Boy Scouts and is up to date in that respect. All over the country the Boy Scout movement is spreading rapidly. It has taken on a new lease of life since the preparedness movement began. In addition to its present company which is under the efficient guidance of Scoutmaster C. B. Guthrie of 1417 Sycamore avenue, another company is to be organized under the leadership of Scoutmaster D. A. Lane, who is at present assistant scoutmaster in Company No. 1. Each company consists of thirty-two boys and Company No. 1 has had its full complement some time ago. Already there are more than thirty-two boys on the waiting list. The first thirty-two will be enrolled in Company No. 2 and another waiting list formed.

In Los Angeles the movement has attracted a great deal of attention and a fund of $10,000 is being raised for the work. Four thousand dollars was raised Wednesday and the balance will be quickly obtained. The president of the executive committee is Arthur Letts and the officials are all prominent men. It is expected that the Los Angeles division will grow to 10,000.

CAMPAIGN WITH BOYS

The Presbyterian church through the following representatives, John Camphouse, James Newton, Harry Howe, E. H. Wight, Joseph Wilson, James Cooper, Charles Widney, Guthrie Boyd and the pastor, met at the Gray hotel last evening at 6:30 for dinner, after which plans were discussed in connection with a popular campaign among the boys of the church and Sabbath school. Among other propositions considered was the organization of Boy Scouts. A summer camp is also under advisement, together with hikes, picnics, visits to factories, etc. A general meeting will be called in the near future, at which time a complete program of the campaign will be given.

DEATH OF JOHN KIRRI

Lou Kirri, 1318 Hawthorne St., received a telegram Thursday announcing the rather sudden death of his father, John Kirri of Ferndale, Cal. Mr. Kirri and his brother, Ed. Kirri, of Glendale avenue left this morning for the north for the funeral. Ferndale is in Humboldt county. The deceased was 84 years of age and his sons here had not heard of his being ill. The death took place Thursday at 5 p. m. Mrs. Kirri, wife of the deceased, and four sons survive him.

C. E. LIBRARY SOCIETY

PRESBYTERIAN SOCIETY GETS 100 BOOKS AND $6 IN CASH

The Library Social given by the Christian Endeavor society of the Presbyterian church Tuesday evening was a brilliant success from every standpoint.

A goodly number of the society's friends among the church members responded to the invitation to "come and bring a book or the price of a book" and the result was one hundred books and something over $6 in cash, a handsome beginning for the new C. E. library.

The following delightful program was enjoyed by all present: A reading from "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," Miss Winnie Sinclair; violin solo, Mr. Cecil Crandall. A library game was a novel feature. "Books" about mission lands, represented by young ladies in costume, were "taken from the library, read and returned" to be taken out by other groups. China was represented by Miss Leeta McCoy and Mrs. Jas. Newton; Korea by Miss Bessie Field; Japan by Miss Esther Sinclair; India by Miss Inez Harrison and Mrs. Chas. Widney.

Following this "A Southern Lullaby" was given by the girls' chorus under the directorship of Mrs. Laura Jones; a reading, "Dolly's Mama," by Gladys Jones, and a vocal solo by Mr. Clifford Riggs.

Young girls in Japanese costumes assisted in serving the refreshments, this, together with the piano music rendered by Mr. Charley Cooper at this time, adding greatly to the charm of the evening.

The society desires to thank Miss Elizabeth Chandler and her able committee and all who so willingly gave of their talents to make the evening the success it was. Also to heartily thank the friends who so bountifully contributed to the new library.

VALUE OF THOROUGH DISTRIBUTION

The Evening News regularly has a reasonably large circulation, but like all other newspapers it is difficult to have it received in every home in the community. Every resident of a community should be a regular subscriber for his local daily paper, and the reason why so many are not subscribers is because they have not learned of the true merits of the paper. It is thought best by the management of the Evening News to make an occasional thorough distribution of the paper for two reasons. First that persons not familiar with the contents and make-up of the paper may learn of its superiority as a local paper. Second, that advertisers may have the exceptional opportunity of getting their announcements into all the homes of the Glendale territory.

Tomorrow, May 20, is a day selected for this thorough distribution of the Evening News in the Glendale community which comprises Glendale, Tropic and Casa Verdugo.

WOMAN'S CITY CLUB

On Monday, May 22d, the Woman's City Club will depart from its usual order of program when Lillian Burkhart Goldsmith will present a program on some modern thought, "A Study in Feminism," "Child Labor," "Our Vanishing Wild Life," "The Mob."

Mrs. Goldsmith is an unusually brilliant thinker and impressive speaker and the program will undoubtedly be one of the most popular of the year.

Luncheon at Blanchard hall at 12. Program at 12:45.

WORK AT THE KALEM

Mr. Gage of the Kalem Picture company is busy at present with the fifteenth episode of the "Social Pirates," the serial which has been running for some time. This is the last episode of the serial. Next week the company will start picturizing a new serial entitled "The Girl from Frisco."

GLENDALE, CALIFORNIA, FRIDAY, MAY 19, 1916

EUROPE'S LOSS OF TOURIST TRADE

"The Rhine, the Rhine, the German Rhine" is silent and deserted these days. The great city of Cologne, with its wonderful cathedral, glorious in song and legend, the site of the tomb of the three kings—Melchior, Gaspar and Balthazar, the fabled home of the "eleven thousand virgins," opens its gates no longer to the gold-scattering tourist and its many cafes are closed with the exception of the few needed to satisfy the wants of the sparse natural population. The blight of the war is on everything there.

Coblentz, one of the most famous points in the journey up or down the Rhine, is equally desolate and bare. Formerly crowds of admiring tourists used to disembark on its wharves, wander through its quaint streets and gaze at its frowning fort, one of the strongest of the military posts on the Rhine. That city like Cologne is peopled by military officers and men. At the beginning of the war Coblentz was the most envied of all German cities because the kaiser and his staff spent the first two weeks of the war here directing the operations against France and Belgium. The inhabitants of Coblentz tell of how the all-powerful Wilhelm stood on the fortifications and watched the German hosts stream down the valley of the Mosel.

Coblentz, formerly the center of life on the Rhine, now shows a beggarly array of empty hotels and only a few war-worn guests with drawn faces that picture the anxiety of a nation that has found its schemes go all awry, are to be found flitting through its hostleries. Almost the only residents in the hotels are officers detailed to this fort for special duty. If the French and the Allies ever penetrate into Germany as far as the Germans have penetrated into France Coblentz will fall into French hands.

Across from Coblentz is Ehrenbreitstein, one of the strongest hill forts in the world. Behind the city are numerous other forts unseen among the vine-clad heights. Guns are everywhere—from the huge siege mortar to the slim quickfiring, aeroplanes hover overhead and gashly war has obliterated all the finer traits of Rhine life that made this section famous in the days when fair-haired students with song and glee made the rocks resound. Souvenir shops are closed up. The guides are all at war and the gentle art of parting the tourist from his gold is being rapidly forgotten for the tourist no longer wanders hapless and helpless about in the hands of those sight-showing footpads.

No sentimental English or American lady, with "Childe Harold" or Lytton's "Pilgrims of the Rhine" in hand now stands gazing in deepest admiration at the "castled crag of Drachenfels" and contributes to the upkeep of the German army by the liberality of her largess to her guide. It is questionable if those halcyon days will return in their former fullness to those famous spots except after a very long time. The Rhine is likely to suffer from the after effects of the war. Europe will be revisited by Americans and British, but it is most likely that their attention will be directed toward the ruins of Belgium, France and Italy and that even Serbia and Constantinople will receive a considerable portion of attention.

Still Nature that heals all things will heal up even this rankling sore. The Rhine is still full of beauty and those who love its old atmosphere, its songs and its legends will continue to think of it kindly.

NEW YORK'S ASSUMED SUPERIORITY

New York has again stirred the indignation of the rest of the United States outside of that little island of Manhattan. There is a provincialism in New York that consists in thinking that nothing outside of that city is worthy of consideration. The New Yorker too often is profoundly and pitifully ignorant of the mighty United States that lies outside of Brooklyn bridge and hugs himself in the belief that in every respect those who breathe the sacred air of Fifth avenue and Central park are a favored race, while the rest of the country is plunged into outer barbarism.

Naturally the great country that flings itself like a mighty giant from Atlantic to Pacific and stretches its branches from the Gulf of Florida to Maine and from the mouth of the Mississippi to Herschel Island in the Arctic ocean laughs at the presumption of the Manhattaners and smiles tolerantly at their incapacity to pronounce the letter "R." "Noo Yoik" may be an oracle to the robbers of Wall street or the alien holdup men of "da Moolberri," but to the wide-minded people of the west it seems very decrepit, wrinkled, haggard and a thing of a remote past, without capacity of further growth, clinging to the barren achievements of an age that is gone like a drowning man to a barren rock.

It is no wonder then that with the curious lack of perspective that New York so often exhibits some of the women of that curious, antique center should have taken on themselves just now to instruct the women of the federated clubs of the United States how to dress correctly for the coming biennial. This purling though doubtless sincere individual issued a set of instructions to the 20,000 clubwomen who are now on their way to the opening meeting of the biennial, "How they should dress in New York so as not to appear in poor taste." Miss Mary A. Peck has achieved an unenviable distinction by this act and she is like to hear from her indignant sisters from all over the country, who are even now "nursing their wrath to keep it warm."

Some of the western clubwomen have already voiced their indignation at the "absurd effrontery" of the New York women in seeking to dictate good taste in dress to those who are equipped in every way as well as any New York party in the matter of dress and moreover are accustomed to import their dresses from Paris, Berlin, London and Vienna, direct without the intervention of any Manhattan authority.

One cannot help sympathizing with the indignation that is rending the hearts of the women of Indiana, who held indignation meetings and commented sarcastically on the words of the directions, "Many delegates do not know that New York women

SALESMANSHIP

Salesmanship offers an unlimited field for the employment of individual opportunity. In all the avocations of life, all those who work are salesmen, as the first call is to sell one's self. Salesmanship opens the door to individual opportunity. It calls for creative thought. It demands initiative thought. It must have sincerity. It must have ambition. It demands untiring energy and industry; it is made of study, and the application of that study to one's self, because the individual must be built before the individual can build. Salesmanship demands mastery of detail, work well done, the tracks of effort kept clear of obstructions and the continuous, cheerful, optimistic faith. Salesmanship is the accurate knowledge of the value of time, and will not waste it in useless effort; it will not prolong attempts to accomplish the impossible, but goes straight to the mark and concentrates its force to successful results.—Ford Sales Bulletin.

MAHOMET AND THE MOUNTAIN

The motor bus stopped, and the conductor looked earnestly up the steps, but no one descended, and at last he stalked up impatiently.

"Ere you," he said to a man on top, "don't you want Westminster Abbey?"

"Yes," was the reply.

"Well," retorted the conductor, "come down for it. I can't bring it on the bus for you."—Tit-Bits.

SUPPLY OF COPPER

At the present rate of copper consumption of about 1,000,000 tons a year, says the New Orleans Picayune, the present visible supply would last considerably longer than 20 years.

Life is not so short but there is always time for courtesy.—Emerson.

"Of course I want my daughter to have some kind of an artistic education. 'Think I'll let her study singing,' said Mrs. Neighbors.

"Why not art or literature?" suggested Mrs. Highbrow.

"Art spoils canvas and literature wastes reams of paper. Singing merely produces a temporary disturbance of the atmosphere," was the reply.

wear only strictly tailored suits on the streets or at business meetings and little or no jewelry."

In answer to the maunderings of Miss Mary A. Peck there is now on the road to New York city trainload after trainload of women from western states with an average of two and one-third trunks apiece, full of costumes in the very height of good taste, and such as may well make Mary A. Peck forever after hold her peace. It truly would appear as though the influence of Sleepy Hollow had extended down to Manhattan Island and had pervaded the sacred precincts of the Women's clubs there to the complete obscuration of their mental outlook.

BY THE NORTH SEA

Time-forgotten, yea since time's creation, Seem these borders where the seabirds range.

Slowly, gladly, full of peace and wonder Grows his heart who journeys here alone, Earth and all its thoughts of earth sink under

Deep as deep in water sinks a stone. Hardly knows it if the rollers thunder,

Hardly when the lonely wind is blown. Tall the plumage of the rush-flower tosses,

Sharp and soft in many a curve and line Gleam and glow the sea-colored marsh-mosses,

Salt and splendid from the circling brine. Far, and far between, in divers orders

Clear gray steeples cleave the low gray sky; Fast and firm as time-unshaken warders,

Hearts made sure by faith, by hope made high. . . . Firm and fast where all is cloud that changes

Cloud-clogged sunlight, cloud by sunlight thinned, Stern and sweet, above the sand-hill ranges

Watch the towers . . . Out and in and out the sharp straits wander, In and out and in the wild way strives,

Starred and paved and lined with flowers that squander Gold as golden as the gold of hives. . . . A. C. Swinburne.

"Your salary," said the manager of the film company to the star he was trying to sign up to a long contract, "will be one million dollars per week."

"That listens good," said the actor, "but how much are you going to pay me?"

Mrs. Havlette of Los Angeles spent the week end with Mrs. Patterson of 1463 Riverdale drive.

Mrs. Minnie C. Patterson of 1463 Riverdale drive, Mrs. K. I. Gifford of Pasadena and Miss Florence Gifford of Pasadena spent the day Thursday with Mrs. George J. Lyons of Riverdale drive.

Wm. Hockett and family of 224 E. Second street left this morning for Blair, Oklahoma, where they will visit friends for a short time before going on to Texas where they will make their future home.

Mrs. Lovina Henry, deputy organizer of the Fraternal Brotherhood, was in Glendale Thursday on business connected with that organization.

Dr. H. V. Everly and Mrs. Everly were dinner guests Thursday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Street at the Minnewaska apartments, Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. George Taylor of Patterson and Columbus avenue are having their town residence at Ninth and Lake avenue thoroughly overhauled preparatory to occupying it while their Glendale residence receives similar renovation. J. F. Tatlow, the Glendale decorator, with his corps of assistants, has both contracts in charge as well as a ten-court bungalow proposition in Pasadena.

Mrs. Rehart, who was one of the old residents on East Broadway for a number of years, was a caller at the home of Mrs. J. A. Farrell, 123 E. Broadway, this week. Mrs. Rehart, who motored from Monrovia to Glendale, was accompanied by her son, Sol Rehart, and his bride. Mr. Rehart is well known in Glendale and Los Angeles among the legal sections of both communities.

Mr. and Mrs. Bennick, who recently arrived in Glendale from the Panama zone, have taken up their residence temporarily with Mrs. Bennick's sister, Mrs. Swindell, 1230 Chestnut street. Mr. Bennick, who was for some time in the Panama government service, has accepted a position with the Hammond Lumber company of Los Angeles. The Bennicks intend to settle in Glendale.

Miss Dorothy Gilson, daughter of Mrs. Eva Gilson of Belmont street, and granddaughter of the Rev. and Mrs. George Eley, 1210 Lomita avenue, returned home Thursday for the summer vacation. Miss Gilson has been a student at Berkeley for two years. She is studying for the teaching profession and will complete her course after another year.

Mrs. George Eley of 1210 Lomita street, was a delegate at the convention of Ladies' Auxiliaries of the Episcopal church in Southern California Tuesday. The meeting took place in the guild hall of the Pro-Cathedral in Los Angeles. The guild hall was crowded to its capacity and the convention was presided over by Mrs. Evans Cowles. Missionaries from the Imperial valley and from Japan were prominent in the reports.

The Los Angeles City council has adopted the ordinance calling the special city charter election for June 6, at which time the proposed new charter will be submitted along with four alternative charter provision propositions. The council has adopted resolutions declaring the public necessity for voting $1,800,000 bonds for sewage disposal plants at Hyperion, Terminal and San Pedro; $300,000 bonds for the city's share of the proposed Second street tunnel through the Bunker hill district; $750,000 bonds for additional fire equipment, land and fire houses, etc., and $500,000 bonds for a fire alarm and police signal system.

Mr. and Mrs. Blake Franklin and Donald Franklin, 1498 W. Third St.; Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Chappell, 1437 Myrtle street; Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Vandyke, 1430 W. Third street, took a very pleasant trip Wednesday up the Big Tejuja canyon. The object of the journey was to enjoy the fine trout fishing, which is now improving every day. They went up the canyon a distance of four miles and found the water still high, but clear and favorable for fishing. The male members of the party were those who engaged in the piscatorial sport and they were rewarded by catching, though not the limit, still quite a satisfactory number of trout. The trout were not of the largest size. Those are found further up the canyon than the party had time to penetrate. They returned safely the same evening after having thoroughly enjoyed the outing.

OPEN AIR DANCE

There will be a dance Saturday evening on the tennis courts of the Tropico Playground under the auspices of the Tropico band and the Playground committee of the Carnival association. Of course every one will be there.

TIMID PEOPLE

Tomorrow the Evening News advertisers will talk to 11,000 people. Timid people will hesitate to talk to so large an audience.

GLENDALE FOOTHILLS

Mrs. C. H. Toll, Kenneth road, was one of a number of members of the Parent-Teacher federation who visited the kindergartens this week for the purpose of observing and studying methods.

The Foothills club met Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Alfred Priest, 1442 N. Central avenue. There was a large attendance.

David Black of Kenneth road is making a number of improvements in his property. This week he tore down a rather unsightly and ancient outbuilding that fronted on Kenneth road. This makes a wonderful change for the better in the appearance of that part of the road.

Mrs. Minnie Weetman of 1103 Melrose avenue, has moved into the large bungalow at the corner of Viola and Stocker, where she will serve meals to a select clientele.

Mr. Yorba of Casa Verdugo, who broke a bone in his wrist about six weeks ago, has not yet fully recovered the use of his hand. Under medical orders he is giving the bone a fair chance to knit up in good shape.

Joseph Scott, a well-known attorney of Los Angeles, entertained a party of six friends at dinner Thursday evening at Casa Verdugo.

VALLEY VIEW

Mrs. E. Moffett and little babe returned home, 1510 Hawthorne, Wednesday from the hospital and the dainty little lady was royally welcomed by the proud father, brothers and sister.

H. L. Adams and family of 463 Pacific avenue, who are enjoying a few weeks' outing at Hermosa Beach, were at home Sunday and Monday to look after domestic affairs.

Mrs. Sayres of Los Angeles visited Mrs. W. C. Bradley, 1617 Oak street, the first of the week.

John Railsback, meat cutter for Kilborn & Peters, has bought a house and two lots just west of Pacific and Seventh and will move next week.

This section is becoming quite a poultry raising center. Carr's ranch on Broadway and Wood's on Seventh are old institutions, both quite successful, and McCracken's bids fair to equal them. Mr. McCracken has a regular little village of houses and more building at 1629 Riverdale, C. H. Woolsey's place. Then there are quite a number of small and medium sized flocks also.

A Mrs. Young and son Johnnie have moved into Mrs. Moore's little house at 1610 W. Colorado.

There are some very fine looking patches of garden vegetables at the Pacific avenue school grounds, speaking well for the soil and for the faithful work of the pupils.

FOR SCHOOL BENEFIT

Teachers and students alike of the Intermediate school are looking forward with much pleasurable anticipation to the production of "Pudd'n-head Wilson" at the Palace Grand theater Friday, May 26. All are anxious to have a good house on that occasion and desire that the friends of the Intermediate school should attend the production themselves and also secure a few others to go on that occasion. The reason for this anxiety is because the proceeds of the show are to go to the aid of the fund for the beautifying of the school grounds. Recently the school acquired a fine new tennis ground and other improvements have been made. It is hoped to raise a considerable sum for this purpose.

KANSAS MAN STARTS GROCERY

L. R. Killian, recently of Wichita, Kans., has started a new grocery store, formerly occupied by John Roman's real estate office on Brand Blvd., near Sixth street. Mr. Killian came to California about two months ago, visited San Diego, Los Angeles and a number of other cities, but finally decided on Glendale as being the best field for a new grocery. Mr. Killian has practically spent his life in the grocery business and thoroughly understands the game.

A classified ad in Saturday's Evening News will be read by 11,000 people. That edition of the paper will be placed in every home in the Glendale community, comprising Glendale, Tropico and Casa Verdugo.

COMPETITION GAMES

Children always enjoy races, and one with mechanical toys is good fun, says the Detroit Free Press.

Arrange the guests in a row, each with a mechanical top. A few yards from the goal—a line of white tape being fastened to the floor—the toys, which have been previously wound, are started at the signal "go."

There will be much excitement when the winner comes in. First, second and third prizes, very inexpensive, might be given.

The next competition is called blindfold feeding and should mean lots of fun.

For this let the children choose partners. Two at a time are blindfolded and have napkins tied about their necks. Then each boy is handed a small bowl of bread and milk and a spoon, and they are told to feed one another in alternate mouthfuls as neatly and quickly as possible. Prizes are given to the pair who succeed in feeding each other most neatly and in the shortest space of time.

A competition in building card houses might be tried. A steady table is needed for this. Start the children in couples, one against the other, a time limit of five minutes being allowed, when the losers fall out and the winners play the round until the prize winner is decided.

A needle-threading competition is also fun, and for this each child must be given a piece of cotton. He proceeds to thread six needles on to it, one after another, without breaking the thread from the spool. Some of the boys prove astonishingly nimble fingered.

MOONRISE AT SEA

The long slow swell of the still sea Rises and falls, and sluggishly The wind-bound ship rolls to and fro. Soundless, save when the huge sails go

With heavy boom from left to right: A few stars only trail their light In quivering snaky gleams below In the sea's depths. . . .

But westward far where sea and skies

Blend in one darkness, breaks a beam

Of wan faint light—and now a gleam.

Curv'd like a golden scimitar

And bright as though welded from a star.

Hangs for a moment, grows and grows

More round and large, a golden rose

Of one immaculate petal made:

And now the moon is risen, has laid

The magic of her musing smile

Upon the dim dark seas, till mile

On mile, league upon league, are bright

With a broad track of silver light,

And all the ships' sails seem to be

Of moon-beam gossamer woven free.

—William Sharp.

GIVING PRAISE

Many favors which God giveth us ravel out for want of hemming, through our own unthankfulness; for though prayer purchaseth blessings, giving praise doth keep the quiet possession of them.—Thomas Fuller.

MEN ARE TO HELP AND LOVE ONE ANOTHER

But are we then only bound to others by the enforcement of laws? Beside these external relations, is there not a relation of feeling among men? Do we not owe to all those who live under the same heaven as ourselves the aid not only of our acts but of our purposes? It is not enough that men do not harm one another; they must also help and love one another.—Emile Souvestre.

CHINESE CARVINGS

The beauty, peculiarity, delicacy, and depth of the Chinese carvings in ivory, tortoise-shell, and sandalwood is known everywhere. The instrument used to carve card cases and ivory ornaments is a sort of minute chisel flat or beveled at the point; some of these tools have a projecting tooth at one side, enabling the workman to carve under the figures. It is because of this process that many of the figures appear to be carved over lace work; the extreme delicacy of this carving is exquisite, exhibiting to perfection the patient industry which is characteristic of the Chinese nation.

One odd specimen of ivory carving was a mandarin boat about two feet in length, the width and height being in proportion; the boat was regularly fitted up in various compartments, representing the different cabins; in the largest one were couches and lanterns hanging from the roof. Before the cabin door was placed a table, around which were seated two mandarins and their wives, the latter having musical instruments in their hands; in other parts of the vessel were sailors working the boat, on the roof of which were placed flower jars and a couch whereon reclined a mandarin. The figures, none exceeding an inch and a half in height, were clad in appropriate dresses, colored to represent the correct costume, the embroidery being delicately traced; the furniture in the cabins, lanterns, flower jars, and shrubs were also colored and depicted with great accuracy. It is impossible to convey an adequate idea of the perfection of this work.

The elaborately carved ivory balls and the ingenuity with which they are constructed have long excited admiration and astonishment at the skill which can carve so many concentric balls one within the other.

The truth is that each ball is constructed of two pieces, the edges of which are finely scraped down, the edge of one sphere being made to overlap its counterpart with the greatest exactitude; thus each separate ball is inclosed one within the other. The joinings are then united by a peculiarly strong cement, aided by the employment of heat and pressure, and over each joining various devices are carved.

The most curious variety of these spheres is a ball having every appearance of being cut out of the solid mass, with perforated holes through which, in whatever direction it is turned, spikes of ivory protrude; though the surface is perfectly smooth and the weight such as to imply solidity, without any carving to conceal a joining, it is believed that the ball is manufactured in a manner similar to the carved ones. The carvings in tortoise-shell and sandalwood are executed in the same masterly style.

The tools, used for the purpose of engraving, are extremely simple; the mother-of-pearl counter is placed in a hollow exactly the size of the article and, by this means, it is kept in a steady position while undergoing the process of engraving. The finest specimens of engraving on mother-of-pearl, carvings in ivory, tortoise-shell and sandalwood come from Ca-ding, those being unsurpassed for beauty and delicacy of workmanship.

WHAT DO WE PLANT?

What do we plant when we plant the tree?
We plant the ship which will cross the sea,
We plant the masts to carry the sails,
We plant the plank to withstand the gales,
The keel, keelson, and beam and knee,
We plant the ship when we plant the tree.

What do we plant when we plant the tree?
We plant the houses for you and me,
We plant the rafters, the shingles, the floor,
We plant the studding, the laths, the door,
The beams and sidings, all parts that be,
We plant the house when we plant the tree.

What do we plant when we plant the tree?
A thousand things that we daily see.
We plant the spire that out-towers the crag,
We plant the staff for our country's flag,
We plant the shade from the hot sun free,
We plant all these when we plant the tree.

—Henry Abbey.

Mrs. Jones hung up the receiver after having finished using the phone and walked to the counter, where she placed a five-cent piece. She waited a few seconds, and the druggist, thinking she was waiting for change, said:

"That's the correct amount, madam."

"I know it, but where are my trading stamps?" was the woman's response.

To thine own self be true,
And it must follow, as the night the day,
Thou canst not then be false to any man.

—Shakespeare: Hamlet.

CATO'S SINCERITY

"There is nothing," says Plato, 'so delightful as the hearing or the speaking of truth.' For this reason there is no conversation so agreeable as that of the man of integrity who hears without any intention to betray and speaks without any intention to deceive. Among all the accounts which are given of Cato, I do not remember one," writes Joseph Addison, "that more redounds to his honor than the following passage related by Plutarch. As an advocate was pleading the cause of his client before one of the praetors, he could only produce a single witness in a point where the law required the testimony of two persons; upon which the advocate insisted on the integrity of that person whom he had produced, but the praetor told him, that where the law required two witnesses he would not accept of one, though it were Cato himself. Such a speech from a person who sat at the head of a court of justice," Addison says, "shows us more than a thousand examples, the high reputation this great man had gained among his contemporaries upon the account of his sincerity."

THE CREEK BRIDGE

There, from its entrance, lost in matted vines,
Where, in the valley foams a waterfall,
Is glimpsed a ruined mill's remaining wall;
Here, by the road, the black-eyed Susan mines
Its brass and bronze; the trumpet trailer shines
Red as the plumage of the cardinal.
Faint from the forest comes the rain-crow's call
Where dusty summer dreams among the pines.
This is the spot where spring scrawls wildflower verses
In primrose gold while, drowsing o'er his reins
The plowman, all unnoting, plods along;
And where the autumn opens milkweed purses
Of sleepy silver, while the cornpiled wains
Rumble the bridge like some deep throat of song.

—Madison Cawein.

THE CAMP FIRE

Start it with fine kindling and clean, dry hemlock bark between two logs laid parallel. When you have a bright even fire from end to end of the space, keep it up with small fagots of the sweetest and most wholesome woods in the forest. These are, in the order named, black birch, hickory, sugar maple, yellow birch and red beech. The sticks should be short and not over two inches across. Split wood is better than round. The outdoor range can be made by one man in little more than an hour, and the camper-out who once tries it will never wish to see a "portable camp stove" again.—Forest and stream.

TOO SAVING

In the Eudora News appeared the story of a couple who had a parlor of which they were very proud, but which they seldom permitted themselves to use. One day the wife missed the husband and called out to him:

"Joseph, where are you?"
"I'm resting in the parlor," was the answer.
"What, on the sofa?"
"No, on the floor."
"Not on the grand carpet?"
"No, I rolled it up."

WHAT IS "THE CITY?"

A prominent and well-to-do resident of Santa Barbara, when asked recently to join his neighbors in a certain scheme of public improvement, declined with the declaration, "The city has not treated me right."

That of which the city had been guilty had not been specified. Perhaps this property owner had been assessed for public work for which he claimed to have received inadequate benefits. Perhaps he had been compelled to lay a sidewalk, or clean the weeds from vacant frontage. Whatever it may have been, "the city" is a tyrant.

"What is the city but the people?" asked Shakespeare; and Webster added, "A city is the collective body of citizens or inhabitants."

Then, if a city is tyrannical or slothful or deficient in any way, the people are at fault; and, contrariwise, if the city is energetic and progressive and bright and cheerful and inviting as a place of residence, the people should have the credit.

A city thrives best when there is a sentiment favorable to co-operation; when selfishness is supplanted by thought of the community; when feelings of "the city has not treated me right" fade before the query "What have I done toward treating the city right?" It is not right to neglect one's property to the degree that it becomes an eyesore and a detriment to the community. That is also false economy; for a few such properties can damage every holding on the street.

When every citizen does not only what is expected of him but a little more, no one will have time to feel hurt, and everyone will feel proud of the part he or she has had in the aggregate accomplishment.—Santa Barbara Press.

MAKING CONCRETE BLOCKS

Among the toys of a constructive nature which have been introduced of late is a concrete-block making outfit which has the double advantage of being educational as well as entertaining. In the April Popular Mechanics Magazine the toy is described, with illustrations showing each step taken in making the little blocks. It is not surprising, in view of the widespread use of cement as a building material, that children's playthings should in some way be influenced by this product, but it is interesting to note in what way this has manifested itself. The toy in question is one of very modest proportion. Its parts consist of a tiny bucket, combination spade and tamper, a sheet-metal mortar box, a couple of iron castings, and wood blocks for molding purposes, and a small bag of sand and cement of the proper mixture. The whole paraphernalia fits in a pasteboard box of pocket size. With it a youngster is able to make his own blocks, and in a half dozen shapes and dimensions. With these he may build houses that look like houses, or a who's city of them if he wishes. The extent of his building operations depends solely upon his store of cement, which may be of almost any commercial brand. Here an advantage comes, for the boy, although he may be only 5 or 6 years of age, may learn to mix cement, mold it into different forms and then erect something with the blocks thus produced. The educational value of this is considerable, for a child teaches himself something which is of permanent value.

The honeymoon sometimes demonstrates that marriage is a failure almost as early in the season as the peach crop.

HER INTERIM

Ex-Secretary of War Garrison said in a Camden war argument:
"Ignorance! Military ignorance! Why, it's as bad as the etymological ignorance of the Camden girl."
"A young man was praising a Philadelphia restaurant to a Camden girl."
"It's so deuced popular," he said, "that you have to engage your table three days in advance." Then he laughed and added, "But they feed you so well that it's worth while going without food in the interim."
"It wouldn't be much fun to me, though," said the girl, "to go round for three days with an empty interim."

"The old-fashioned boy used to respect every word his father said."
"Yes," replied the rather cynical youth, "but you must remember that the old-fashioned boy had one of those old-fashioned fathers."

Political boss—I can land you a job payin' three thousand a year—two to you and one to me.
Worker—And do I have an assistant who does all the work?
Boss—Sure; and we split half of his salary between us.

"Yes," said Mrs. Twickembury, "I often receive a friendly missile from her."
